

HAWAII FOODBANK ANNOUNCES LILLIAN GOO RODOLFICH AS NEW VICE PRESIDENT AND CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER

HONOLULU (November 2, 2018) – Hawaii Foodbank is pleased to announce the appointment of Lillian Goo Rodolfich as Vice President and Chief Financial Officer effective Monday, November 12, 2018. Rodolfich will be responsible for overseeing the nonprofit's finances and capitalizing on financial strategies to ensure the organization's successful operation.

"We believe Lillian will be a strong addition to our Hawaii Foodbank ohana as she brings a wealth of experience and has a deep understanding of the complexities of nonprofit organizations," said Ron Mizutani, President and CEO of Hawaii Foodbank. "With an extensive background in financial management and accounting, we are confident Lillian will effectively drive our finance operations so we can continue to bring communities together and meet the needs of hungry families across the state."

Equipped with over 20 years of expertise in accounting and finance, Rodolfich is proficient in all facets of financial management such as financial planning, risk management and overseeing financial operations for organizations in the private and nonprofit sectors. In her previous position, Rodolfich was the Interim Vice President of Finance at Catholic Charities Hawaii and has also held positions with Associa Hawaii, Queen Lili'uokalani Trust, Aloha Air Cargo, Alexander & Baldwin and Kamehameha Schools.

"It is an honor to have the opportunity to join Hawaii Foodbank and to further perpetuate the organization's mission to provide aid to those experiencing crisis or food insecurity," said Lillian Goo Rodolfich. "I look forward to utilizing my education, skill set and passion to contribute to the Foodbank's success and to continue inspiring hope in those who depend greatly on our services."

Rodolfich is a Certified Public Accountant (CPA) and received her Executive Master of Business Administration from University of Hawai'i at Manoa, Shidler College of Business.
