HAWAII FOODBANK 19TH ANNUAL FOOD DRIVE

How You Can Make a Difference

“What do we want? Meats! When do we want it? Now!” Hundreds of voices resounded at the Kickoff Breakfast in January 17, 2008, officially starting the Hawaii Foodbank 19th Annual Food Drive. Nearly 300 individuals from various companies, government agencies, schools and clubs attended the Breakfast to receive information and listen to successful strategies on how to help feed Hawaii’s hungry.

The Hawaii Foodbank Food Drive raises awareness of hunger in Hawaii and collects needed canned goods and other foods to feed the hungry. Your participation is needed in this island-wide effort by organizing your own food and fund raising drives or volunteering your time on Food Drive Day. Your donation of dollars, food and/or volunteer support will help us reach our Food Drive goals of 550,000 pounds of food and $450,000.

Your contributions sustain island residents in need: children who do not get enough to eat throughout the day, elderly citizens who must choose between buying food or medication, parents struggling to provide for their families, people living paycheck to paycheck. Through your donations, these people do not have to forego one of life’s most basic necessities. With your help, they can live better lives.

Dalphe and her husband, Billy, are the proud parents of five kids and one grandchild, ages 22 to 2 years old. They have been living in Palolo Valley since 1992. While Billy works as a mason contractor, Dalphe works as a cleaner through a company contracted to the airport. She has been with the company for 2 years. Even with both incomes, Dalphe must make a difficult choice each month: which bill will go unpaid?

After rent, the family’s income pays for utilities and groceries such as chicken, pork, beef, milk and eggs. Through the Hawaii Foodbank Ohana Produce Program, Dalphe’s family receives items to supplement the foods they purchase: fresh fruits and vegetables, rice, even dairy products like yogurt. Through the program, her family is able to eat more nutritious, balanced meals.

When asked what she would say to Hawaii Foodbank donors, Dalphe replies, “Thank you for helping those of us living paycheck to paycheck. In Palolo we are one family, one community. Thank you for extending a helping hand.”

Like Dalphe, the Hawaii Foodbank serves the people of Hawaii as one ohana. Your donation will help improve the lives of thousands of islanders in need. The Hawaii Foodbank encourages everyone to organize food drives and fund raisers to help feed Hawaii’s hungry. Follow these tips for a successful collection:

1 Coordinate a food drive or fund raiser: Ask permission from your organization head. Then establish goals: for example, 100% participation or $10/10 pounds per person. Designate an area for food collection. Decorate boxes with colorful paper or flyers. Generate enthusiasm by encouraging friendly competition between teams and reward those who collect the most pounds or raise the most dollars. Creative food drives and fund raisers engage the most participation, and are often the most successful.

2 Get support from the Hawaii Foodbank: Visit our website at www.hawaiifoodbank.org to download a Food Drive packet for information, forms and other resources, or call the Food Drive hotline at 954-7870. We also offer Food Drive supplies including our 2008 video featuring client testimonials and a “How to do a Food Drive” segment with Jade Moon.

3 Drop off your donations: On Saturday, April 19, 2008, join the excitement of Food Drive Day by bringing your donations to any of our official drop-off sites. Or deliver your donations to the Hawaii Foodbank warehouse Monday through Friday, between 7:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m.

Your donations will help feed Hawaii’s children, the elderly, the homeless, the disabled, low-income working families and the temporarily unemployed. Your donations will make a difference in their lives. Mahalo for your support of our Hawaii Foodbank 19th Annual Food Drive!

WELCOME TO THE BOARD!

The Hawaii Foodbank Board of Directors welcomes Wandalee Keating and Jade Moon, Community Volunteers.

Ms. Keating was raised in Oklahoma and attended Oklahoma State University. As the wife of Admiral Timothy J. Keating, United States Navy, Wandalee has met many friends while living in Florida, Texas, Mississippi, California, Washington, D.C., Yokosuka, Japan, The Kingdom of Bahrain and now Hawaii.

Ms. Keating has been involved with spouses' groups at every location and has worked with the Navy-Marine Corp Relief Society, Navy ball committee, USO Gala committee and CARE, preparing packages for deployed troops.

Admiral and Mrs. Keating are proud parents of a son who serves in the Navy as a FA-18 pilot. They also enjoy two delightful grandchildren, Lauren Joy and Matthew.

Ms. Moon is spokeswoman for the HECO renewable energy and energy conservation campaigns. She also writes the "Moonlighting" column for MidWeek and the "Nourishing Body and Soul" column for the Foodbank Review.

During her 2 decade career as anchor and reporter for KGMB 9, Ms. Moon focused on issues important to Hawaii: education, politics and medical news. Her high level of journalism has earned her many distinguished awards: an EMMY (Regional), the Society of Professional Journalists--

Public Affairs Reporting Award, the Hawaii Medical Association Distinguished Journalism Award, the HSTA Award, The American Cancer Society Distinguished Reporting Award, the Healthcare Association of Hawaii Distinguished Reporting Award, the United Cerebral Palsy

Media Award and the Commission on the Handicapped Media Award.

Ms. Moon and her husband, attorney Ward Jones are proud parents of a 13-year-old son.

Volunteer Spotlight: Melvin and Jean Yee

Blessings come in all sizes, like our loyal volunteers Melvin and Jean Yee. The Yees joined the Hawaii Foodbank ohana in July 2005, having decided they wanted to contribute to the community together.

Melvin, a retired dentist and Jean, a former dental hygienist wanted to spend their retirement years "making a difference" - and they have. They volunteered for almost every Foodbank event from the Hawaii Foodbank Golf Classic, Annual Food Drive and the Patriots Celebration. Most importantly they are an integral part of our Friday Morning Team that enables the Foodbank to complete mass mailings, thank you cards and other important projects.

Asked why they have stayed at the Foodbank for over two years, Jean and Melvin smiled and said, "We love the people we work with. We see how much the Foodbank does and it inspires us to continue."

HAWAII FOODBANK IN THE COMMUNITY

HAWAII HOTEL INDUSTRY FOUNDATION CHECK PRESENTATION

On November 21, 2007, the Hawaii Hotel Industry Foundation presented checks to nonprofit organizations with funds raised through the 29th Annual Visitor Industry Charity Walk. The Hawaii Foodbank received $5,000 to help feed the hungry. From l to r: President Murray Towill, Lara Grimm, Hawaii Foodbank and Chairman Barry Wallace.

KUAKINI MEDICAL CENTER, "CANVENTION"

HAWAII FOODBANK 19TH ANNUAL KICKOFF BREAKFAST

On January 17, nearly 300 guests attended our Annual Kickoff Breakfast to start the 19th Annual Food Drive campaign. Guest speakers from Foodbank agencies, recipients and companies presented information on how to organize successful food drives and fund raisers to businesses, organizations and schools. Guest speaker Tiresa Malepeai (center) was joined by Hawaii Foodbank member agency Surfing the Nations. From l to r: Rahel Mueller, Lisa Moala, Sara Vaines, Catrin Gustafsson and Cindy Bauer.

Food Donor Spotlight: ALOUN FARMS

Aloun Farms was first featured in our July 2006 newsletter and focused on its founders -- Aloun and Somphone Sou. Today the family business is managed by their sons, Mike and Alec.

Mike and Alec have made their partnership with the Hawaii Foodbank a priority and work regularly with Foodbank Director of Product Donations Mike Kajiwaru to secure fresh produce for distribution to the needy. So far this fiscal year, Aloun Farms has donated 203,912 pounds of produce. Produce donations are distributed from the Foodbank warehouse in Mapunapuna and through the Hawaii Foodbank Ohana Produce Program. Last year, the program distributed over 1 million pounds of fresh fruits and vegetables to 19 communities on Oahu.

"Fresh fruits and vegetables are an important source of nutrition for the families, seniors, homeless and disabled that the Foodbank Network serves. We sincerely appreciate Aloun Farms commitment to feeding Hawaii's hungry by donating their excess and foods and raised $240.

Alec Sou expressed Aloun Farms commitment to the community, "Aloun Farm's goal is to provide Hawaii consumers with the highest quality, fresh island produce. Our 150 employees live and sustain a basic industry, working with the land to produce healthy food for our island community. Agriculture is vital to our local economy and is responsible for the food each of us consumes, directly or indirectly."

"Aloun Farms also supports community outreach programs through educational farm tours and the Future Farmers of America Program, 'School-To-Work.'"

"We look forward to a continued partnership with the Hawaii Foodbank and share in their vision to help feed Hawaii's hungry. Our family philosophy reflects the same generosity and commitment many of Hawaii's food industry companies share. We will continue to support the Hawaii Foodbank and do our part to help sustain Hawaii's families in need."

unmarketable fruits and vegetables to the Hawaii Foodbank," Mike Kajiwaru said.

In addition to produce donations, Aloun Farms organized a food drive at their Great Pumpkin Patch event in October 2007. They collected 1,856 pounds of canned

WONG FOUNDATION FOOD DROP OFF AREA

On March 1, members of Mililani Baptist Church took a warehouse tour of the Foodbank and donated 120 pounds of rice. The tour and donation was a prelude to their church food drive March 16 through 23. Best wishes to Mililani Baptist for a successful food drive to help feed Hawaii's hungry!

Nourishing Body and Soul

Jade Moon

We have become a food worshipping culture and always have been. History books describe hunting and gathering, foraging, farming, feasts and famine, and the subject endlessly fascinates us.

The biggest difference now is that we are more saturated than ever before with the images of food-- advertising, reviews, recipes, TV shows (heck, an entire network is devoted to it!), books, magazines-et cetera, et cetera, et cetera. Food is happiness, status and comfort. We use food to say 'I love you,' or 'you're safe with me.' Food is our enemy when we abuse it to the point of sacrificing our health. We obsess about it even as we deprive ourselves of it to conform to our insane standards of beauty.

Love it. Hate it. But we can't do without it.

The sad fact is that even with all the abundance around us, more people have to do without. We are in a recession, or a slowdown, depending on which economist one asks and what day of the week it is. But the bottom line is the same: a huge chunk of our population is hurting and we at the Hawaii Foodbank have to work harder to keep the shelves stocked. It's a devil of a dilemma-- there has never been a richer society than ours, yet so many are unable to attain the financial security that hangs tantalizingly right out of their reach.

The contrast is heartbreaking. Many households have the means to set a beautiful table. They start off with trendy organic greens and move on to an entree prepared with chi chi ingredients, all served up on designer platters. Dessert? Maybe a fine dark chocolate or a scoop of premium ice cream.

But there are so many others-- too many-- who forage in their cupboards, looking for the last of the cup noodle or a can of tuna they may have somehow missed. Or they dig around in refrigerators for a little something to stretch into a meal.

The concept of sharing the wealth becomes a challenge for us all in these hard times. People are generous -- we know that, especially here in our Aloha state. But it takes a lot of work to keep the donations coming in, especially during a recession. Those of you who have been involved with the Hawaii Foodbank-- you know you're working harder for the same, or even a smaller, piece of the pie. But you keep on doing it and you do it happily, without complaining, with no expectation of thanks or reward. You are the reason so many families still have hope. Thank you for keeping the faith and keeping the food on so many tables.
