HAWAII FOODBANK 20TH ANNUAL FOOD DRIVE

Helping to Feed Hawaii's Children, the Elderly and Low-Income Families

The official start of the Hawaii Foodbank 20th Annual Food Drive was Thursday, February 5, 2009. Nearly 400 guests representing companies, government agencies, schools and clubs attended our Kickoff Breakfast at the Hilton Hawaiian Village. There, they were informed about the growing demand for emergency food in Hawaii, our Food Drive goals, who we feed and what they can contribute to help collect the food and funds needed to feed over 131,862 people statewide each year.

This year, we are partnering with various community groups to collect 550,000 pounds of food and $450,000. But who do these canned goods and purchased foods feed?

Most people would respond, "The homeless." They are the first to come to mind simply because they're the most visible. Driving to and from work, I see homeless men and women at bus stops, church benches, parks and crossing busy intersections, pushing shopping carts filled with the last possessions they have managed to keep.

Yes, we do feed the homeless but they only represent a segment of the total population we feed. The Hunger in Hawaii Study 2006 found the largest group fed is children at 32,965 a year, then the elderly at 14,504 a year.

That was in 2006. With the declining global economy, the rising cost of living and everyone trying to do more with less, imagine how many more people we actually feed today? How many more people are in need of emergency food assistance?

The reality is in addition to the homeless, your donations of food and funds feed kids from low-income families. Their parents have jobs and work, but what they earn just isn't enough to cover food and expenses for the family till the end of the month.

The same goes for our retired grandfathers, grandmothers, aunts and uncles who live on fixed incomes from social security or pension plans. While they may not have kids to support, the high cost of living, in addition to medical expenses and prescription medication, exceeds the income they receive each month. That's the time when the assistance you provide through your food or monetary donations helps Hawaii's low-income families and the elderly put food on the table until the next paycheck comes.

Last September, I met a woman whose family faces a unique set of challenges. "N" is a 66 year-old grandmother with growing health problems who works part-time. She and her family get by with the income she earns and social security checks from her 76 year-old husband, who still suffers from a back injury he received years ago.

Every month, their fixed income needs to cover rent, utilities, food, medical expenses and the support of their two grandchildren. You see, their son is on military deployment and is depending on both of them to care for the kids until he returns.

When asked what she would like to say to you for your donations to the Foodbank she replied, "Thank you for donating and helping. In my time of need you are there."

Now more than ever is the time to give what you can to those who need it. They are not just the homeless. They are people we work with and who live in our neighborhoods. With our busy lives, we just haven't taken the time to stop, think and look around to see who they really are.

Here's how you can get involved to help feed the hungry in Hawaii:

- 1 Coordinate a food drive and/or fund drive: Talk to company management about organizing a drive and receive their authorization and support. Set the dates of your drive, establish goals: for example, 100% participation or $10 per person and designate a collection area(s).
- 2 Get support from the Hawaii Foodbank: Visit our website at www.hawaiifoodbank.org to download a Food Drive packet for information, tips, and other resources, or call the Food Drive Hotline at 954-7870. We also offer Food Drive posters, supplies and our 2009 "How to Do a Food Drive" video featuring client testimonials and a segment hosted by Hawaii Foodbank Spokesperson Jade Moon. Then organize a company meeting to announce the drive, goals, share the video, pass out supplies and generate enthusiasm by encouraging friendly competition.
- 3 Drop off your donations: Please deliver your donations to the Hawaii Foodbank warehouse in Mapunapuna, Monday through Friday between 7:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. Or you may drop off your donations at any of our official Food Drive collection sites on Saturday, April 18.

THE HAWAII FOODBANK HONORED WITH THE 2009 CADES FOUNDATION NONPROFIT LEADERSHIP AWARD

November 13, 2008 – Hawaii Foodbank board and staff waited in quiet anticipation as the nominees for the Nonprofit Leadership Award category were announced at the 7th Annual Business Leadership Hawaii Awards at the Hilton Hawaiian Village. Other nominees were: Hale Na’au Pono, Hospice Hawaii, Mental Health Kokua and River of Life Mission. The winner: the Hawaii Foodbank.

The Hawaii Foodbank was chosen as the 2009 Nonprofit Leader for the development and expansion of its Ohana Produce Program. The program began in 1997 to provide nutritious, fresh produce to communities where there were higher levels of hunger, homelessness or fewer outreach programs.

Kraft Foods was the program’s first sponsor; Times Super Markets its first food donor. Three member agencies agreed to become program partners: Honolulu Community Action Program - Leeward, Hale Ola Ho’opakolea and Waialua United Church of Christ. They distributed produce to the needy in Waianae, Nanakuli and Waialua respectively.

Today, the Ohana Produce Program serves 19 communities through 29 member agencies and distributes over 1 million pounds of fresh produce each year. In addition to food retailers and distributors, Hawaii Foodbank President Dick Grimm (center) holds the award. He is joined (l to r) by Director of Agency Affiliations Roxanne Stark, Director of Product Donations Mike Kajiwara, Director of Finance Chuck Blandford, Director of Warehouse Operations Ken Ito, Board Chair Linda Chu Takayama and Director of Development Polly Kauahi.

the Foodbank has partnered with local growers to provide fresh produce directly from farms, a concept mainland food banks have begun only recently.

“We are honored to be recognized by PBN, the business community and the general public with this award. Our Board, staff and volunteers are inspired to do even more to fulfill our mission and help feed those in need,” said Hawaii Foodbank president Dick Grimm.

Food Donor Spotlight: Hawaii FoodService Alliance

Twenty-five years ago, Chad Buck worked three jobs to put food on the table as a struggling teenage father living in Maui. "When I was hungry, I vowed, never, ever again" he said. He also made a vow to help those who were hungry like him and despite his financial situation, donated a percentage of his income to help the community.

Chad has never forgotten those vows. Now a successful leader of one of the state's largest distributors of bakery and dairy products, Chad has proven that giving to those in need and succeeding in business go hand-in-hand.

Chad started Hawaii FoodService Alliance (HFA) in 2002 in his basement, equipped with one laptop computer and a staff of one. Today, his business employs more than 135 employees and has been recognized by Pacific Business News (PBN) to be the fastest growing company in the state in 2003 and 2004. HFA was the only company in PBN's history to win first place in that category back to back.

In 2005, the Small Business Administration recognized Chad as Business Person of the Year for the City and County of Honolulu.

In December 2008, Chad was recognized and presented with an award as "Outstanding Advocate for Humanity" by House Human Services Committee chairman State Representative John M. Mizuno (D, Kamehameha Heights- Kalihi Valley-Fort Shafter). That same day, Chad donated 10,088 pounds of fresh milk to the Foodbank.

Chad believes successful individuals and organizations have a responsibility to give back to the community "now more than ever that the demands are greater," he said.

As proof, Hawaii FoodService Alliance donated 236,535 pounds of bakery and dairy products to the Hawaii Foodbank in 2008.

"Hawaii FoodService Alliance has been a strong supporter of the Hawaii Foodbank since day one when Chad started the business in 2002," said Mike

Kajiwara, Director of Product Donations. "The company's donations have steadily grown with his business. Chad's dedication and commitment to feeding Hawaii's hungry is appreciated by our board and staff, but most of all by those who receive his generous donations."

WONG FOUNDATION FOOD DROP OFF AREA

November 10, 2008
- The Oahu Filipino Community Council (OFCC) delivered one of two food donations collected from their holiday food drives.

Members of the council and the community were encouraged to donate on behalf of the Hawaii Foodbank. Mr. Agustin Longboy and Mrs. Cirvalina Longboy presented 537 pounds of food including needed canned goods and bags of rice. During their second food drive in December they collected 369 pounds bringing in a total of 906 pounds of food! Mahalo to the Longboys and OFCC for organizing a successful community food drive to help feed the hungry.

Nourishing Body and Soul

Jade Moon

Can it really be that time again? Oh, yes, it sure is. We are once again barreling down to what we hope will be a rousingly successful Food Drive Day on April 18.

It's not something we're taking for granted. We know how much people are hurting. But we are counting on the trust and goodwill of islanders who understand that their help is needed now more than ever.

This year we are tackling challenges on many fronts—the financial crisis, a bit of compassion fatigue and the need for many reliable and enthusiastic volunteers for Food Drive Day.

We love our trustworthy volunteers who show up when they say they will. They keep us energized, they collect food, they cajole and persuade people to contribute cash—in short, they are our lifeline on that all-important day. We can't do what we do without them. But we need more of them.

In the last few weeks, I've had the opportunity to speak to a few groups who are interested in—literally—lending a helping hand. It's a privilege to talk to these folks, because they epitomize everything we love about Hawaii people—kind, generous and caring.

I would love to find more of you out there with the same passion for your fellow human beings. Churches, clubs, service organizations, businesses with enthusiastic employees—you are the groups who help us pull off such a major event year after year.

We ask so much of you. When we need food—you donate food. When we ask for cash—many of you dig deep into your pockets to help. I know there are those of you who would love to give—but are constrained because of the economic downturn. So many people are scared, cutting back, looking for work or hanging on to what they've got. Believe me, I understand.

But that doesn't mean you have nothing to give. If you have a pair of helping hands, we can put them to good use. Just log on to our website at www.hawaiifoodbank.org or you can make arrangements for us to come out and talk to your organization about volunteering by calling 836-3600, extension 228.

Your time is a precious commodity to us—as valuable as cold, hard cash. We would love to work with you on Food Drive Day, Saturday, April 18. Feeding Hawaii's hungry is a humongous job. But together, we can do it. Yes we can.
